Czack Maginot Le Havre Captured

London, Sept. 12 (AP)—Berlin-bound American troops and tanks fought into the Siegfried line five miles inside Germany today, while 290 miles to the rear British forces captured Le Havre-needed to supply the massive assault on the Reich.

The war swept into Germany with an American First Army plunge over the frontier. Farther south, the U.S. Third Army cracked through the old Maginot line to Thionville, on the Moselle above French bridgeheads already forged across that

Advance 40 Miles In 48 Hours

A battlefront dispatch said the fiercely-resisting Germans at Le Havre, France's second port, surrendered at 11:30 a. m., 36 hours after a crushing British assault began and after thunderous air and sea bombardment.

Doughboys of the First Army, driving 40 miles in 48 hours, thrust into Germany northwest of Trier, and apparently were within five to 10 miles of that city, the biggest Siegfried fort center on the lower Moselle.

Hard on their right flank. Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army slashed through the Maginot fort town of Aumetz so fast its big guns were found intact, and carried the battle on to Thionville. This brought the struggle to or beyond the Moselle along a 45-mile front from above Metz to below Nancy.

Lions Entertain Ladies At Dinner Crack Maginot Line; Le Havre Port Captured

London, Sept. 12 (AP)-Berlin-bound American troops and tanks fought into the Siegfried line five miles inside Germany today, while 290 miles to the rear British forces captured Le Havre-needed to supply the massive assault on the Reich.

The war swept into Germany with an American First Army plunge over the frontier. Farther south, the U. S. Third Army cracked through the old Maginot line to Thionville, on the Moselle above French bridgeheads already forged across that

Advance 40 Miles In 48 Hours

A battlefront dispatch said the fiercely-resisting Germans at Le Havre, France's second port, surrendered at 11:30 a. m., 36 hours after a crushing British assault began and after thunderous air and sea bombardment.

Doughboys of the First Army, driving 40 miles in 48 hours, thrust into Germany northwest of Trier, and apparently were within five to 10 miles of that city, the biggest Siegfried fort center on the lower Moselle.

Hard on their right flank, Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army slashed through the Maginot fort town of Aumetz so fast its big guns were found intact, and carried the battle on to Thionville. This brought the struggle to or beyond the Moselle along a 45-mile front from above Metz to below Nancy.

The first great battle of Germany was shaping up along the middle and lower Moselle.

Reds Poised For Assault Into Prussia

This second penetration of the enemy's own land was made across the Sesupe river, which forms the boundary between the Soviet Lithuanian republic and the area of East Prussia northeast of Insterburg.

Red Army artillery has been pounding this sector for days. The new patrol thrust was announced in the Russian midnight communique, which said: "The scouts fired on a German detachment with submachine guns and killed 16 Hitlerites. Having obtained valuable information, our men returned safely to their unit."

The Third Army and Seventh Army which landed on the Mediterranean linked up near Sombernon, 15 miles west of Dijon, welding a solid front and dooming German remnants still in central and southwestern France.

First And Third Armies Join

The American First and Third Armies were joined by Patton's capture of Aumetz, 22 miles northwest of Metz and three miles from Luxembourg.

Allied bombers tore at German big gun positions between Thionville, on the west bank of the Moselle, and Metz. Thionville is 10 miles from the junction of the German, French and Luxembourg borders.

The area of the invasion into Germany is not one of the stronger sections of the Siegfried line. In pre-war days when the westwall was constructed the Germans counted for protection there on the duchy of Luxembourg's neutrality, which the Nazis themselves violated in 1940, and the natural defenses of the region including the Ardennes forest, the razorback hills of Scwarzwalder and Hockwald and the river barriers of the Moselle and the Rhine.

Increase farm productivity by building improvements with CONCRETE

Farmers today are stepping up production of dairy products, eggs, hrestock and other essential foodstnis. One way to begin the job is to build concrete barn floors, stock feeding floors, poultry housefloors, manurepits, storage cellars and other improvements that make your farm more efficient and productive. All you need are a few sacks of portland cement, sand, gravel or stone, and some boards for forming. Concrete conserves critical "war materials"; many farm concrete jobs need none. Economical, life-time concrete improvements cost surprisingly little to build. If you need help, get in touch with your concrete contrator or building For helpful free literature on "how to
